The aesthetic of the website should be complementary to the game's visuals. Traditionally, this would mean using red, black, and white as the main colors with a minimalist interface. However, if the designer wishes to do something else, that's fine and they can bring in any designs for their mockups. Kanye Quest 3030 is all about freedom of the mind and soul, so I hope the designer is the same.

The only technical requirement we have discussed as of now is that there is a navigation area with buttons for each of the pages.
